Federal Reserve

Summary

The balance sheet increased by $21 billion for the week ended March 30.

Since November 10, the balance sheet has increased $312 billion.

Source: Federal Reserve Board

- Treasuries increased by $28 billion while agency debt and MBS declined $7 billion. Since November 10, Treasury securities have grown by $480 billion while agency debt and MBS have shrunk by $131 billion.
- According to the New York Fed's tentative outright Treasury operation schedule, the desk plans to purchase approximately $102 billion between mid-March and mid-April.
- Growth in the balance sheet will fluctuate from week to week as a result of the volatility of MBS prepayments.

Bank reserve balances with the Federal Reserve increased $47.4 billion while Treasury deposits with Federal Reserve Banks (part of "Other") declined $12.5 billion.

The Treasury Supplemental Financing account declined by $20 billion. It is now at $5 billion, as planned.

As of March 30, 2011, bank reserve balances are $1.45 trillion.

- The Treasury has announced that the Supplemental Financing Program will be reduced to \$5 billion to "provide flexibility" and delay the national debt from hitting the current ceiling of $14.29 trillion.
- The Treasury SFP was also reduced from $200 billion to $5 billion over the period September 23, 2009, to December 30, 2009, for the same reason.

Assets: Lending to nonbanks—TALF, CPFF, AMLF, and MMIFF; Short-term lending to financials—discount window, TAF, currency swaps, PDCF, and repos; Misc.—Maiden Lanes I, II, and III, credit to AIG, and other Fed assets. Liabilities: Other—Reverse repos, Treasury cash holdings, and deposits with Federal Reserve Banks other than reserve balances and excluding the Supplementary Financing Program.

Commercial MBS

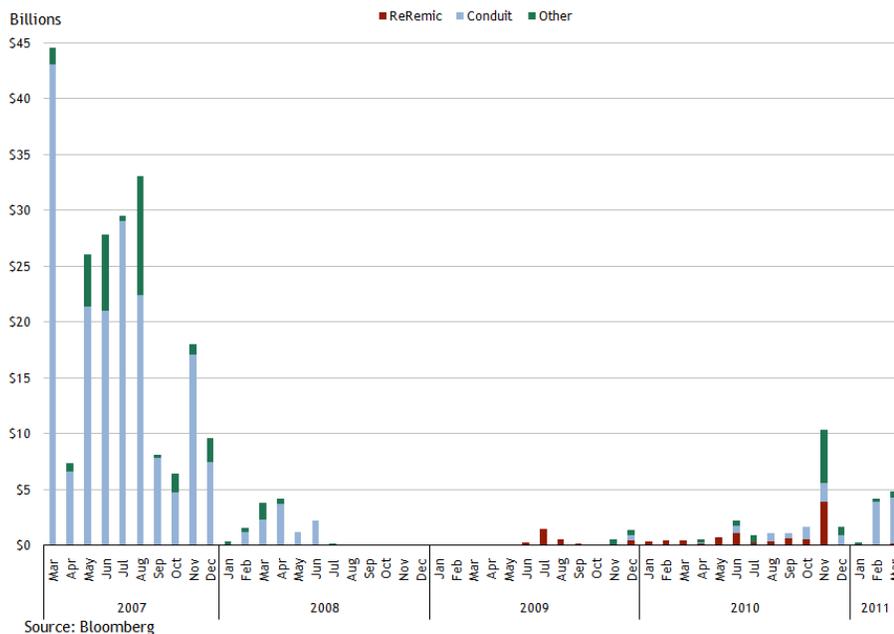

Summary

Several conduit deals were issued in both February and March, a sign that the CMBS issuance markets are becoming healthier.

According to analysts at Bloomberg, new issuance is forecast to reach $45 billion in 2011, compared with a record $234 billion in 2007.

Proposed Dodd-Frank risk-retention rules released last week have some industry participants worried about the potential affects on incentives to issue new CMBS. Any new rules will not go into affect until two years after finalized.
